

GLAMORGAN BIODIVERSITY ADVISORY GROUP
Recorders Day 2004

The meeting was opened by Steve Moon,

Alison Jones gave a summary of the previous meeting, indicating that there was support for a recorders forum in future.

Ian Guildford gave an entertaining talk on Wildlife Crime, and his secondment as Police Liaison Officer for the Countryside Council for Wales.

Russell De'ath then spoke about Species Challenge Fund, and the criteria for applying to the fund for projects in conservation.

After a lunch we had an open discussion about the Record Centre, and what recorders would want from it, these included a newsletter along the lines of the existing newsletter for Gwent, and a Website highlighting events and forthcoming training opportunities.

Although the second Glamorgan Recorders Day was not as well attended as the first, those that did attend did still feel that it was worth pursuing for future years.
